

Do you need to cut API manufacturing costs?

Improved protein solubility and titres with the VB expression vector platform Innovative solutions are required for the development of cost-effective API production processes in the highly competitive pharmaceutical industry. Vectron provides next-generation upstream technologies for increased protein titres and solubility in E. coli and other bacteria.

Contact us for feasibility studies for your protein.

Example study:
Production of a challenging antibody fragment in HCD E. coli fermentation

For more information, visit:
www.vectronbiosolutions.com

